

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY

CENTER FOR EUROPEAN AND MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES

GRADUATE PROGRAM IN EUROPEAN AND MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES

Highly individualized interdisciplinary program in the social sciences and humanities.

Flexible degree requirements allowing students to tailor their studies according to their interests across a range of disciplines, including history, political science, international political economy, cultural studies, anthropology, art history, French, Italian, German, Irish, Central and Eastern Europe, the Mediterranean, and other area studies.

Designed to prepare students for careers in public service/government, non-profit, and cultural organizations, international and regional organizations, international business and law firms, media, and education. Also provides a strong platform for pursuing doctoral studies.

Degree can be completed in 12 months (two semesters and a summer session).

Funding opportunities include generous financial packages for early applicants, summer research/internship fellowships, and travel grants for research or to attend conferences. Graduate student employment also offered.

Deadlines: February 1 (priority deadline for admissions and financial aid) and May 1 (final deadline for admissions and financial aid, pending availability).

Joint Degree Options:

Master's in European and Mediterranean Studies & Journalism: offered with NYU's Arthur L. Carter Journalism Institute.

Master's in European and Mediterranean Studies & Library and Information Science: with the Long Island University's Palmer School of Library and Information Science.

Master's in European and Mediterranean Studies & an Advanced Certificate in Museum Studies: with the Museum Studies at NYU.

To apply visit gsas.nyu.edu/page/grad.admissionsapplication

"The mobility afforded to me by the MA program within the Center for European and Mediterranean Studies allowed me to gain invaluable professional contacts in addition to a rich, challenging, interdisciplinary academic experience. With the support from the Center, I was able to juggle full-time coursework, internship experience with Human Rights Watch and the Institute for International Humanitarian Affairs. I always felt as though the Center was exceptionally helpful in attaining these internships and understanding the need for a prudent professional-academic balance."

— Stephen Whittaker, CEMS '14

Center for European and Mediterranean Studies

285 Mercer Street, 7th Floor | New York, NY 10003 | 212.998.3838 | european.studies@nyu.edu | www.cems.as.nyu.edu