Position Description

Northfield Mount Hermon School is an independent, coeducational boarding school in western Massachusetts. NMH Summer Session provides quality educational programs that attract students from all over the United States and the world. We offer a variety of credit and enrichment courses that enable young people to explore ideas and talents they might not have time for during the school year.

NMH Summer Session averages 280 students in grades 7-12 from more than 24 US states and 37 countries. One particular characteristic of our Summer Session student population is its diversity, and we are especially interested in hiring an equally diverse group of teaching interns.

Each summer, we hire experienced teachers (master teachers) and teaching interns to help us deliver the outstanding variety of courses and activities that set NMH Summer Session apart from other summer academic programs. Teaching interns assist an experienced teacher with classroom teaching of morning major courses, live in and help run dorms, and take charge of afternoon minor courses and sports.

Internships are available in many subject areas.

Dates:

Intern Orientation week start Sunday, June 25th 2017. NMHSS is July 1st – August 5th. Interns depart August 6th.

Application Deadline: Applications are welcome from November 1st through to February 1st, 2017. IMPORTANT: Please note that positions are filled on a rolling basis commencing December. If you delay your application to later in the hiring season, it is likely many of the positions will be filled.
